Miss Miller was in better voice than Mr. Hamlin yesterday, for the tenor's tones in forte passages in his upper register were often harsh and strident.

Yet, he sang with taste and in mezza-voce, with considerable richness of timbre. Miss Miller's voice, especially in her middle and lower registers, was vibrant, and she sang with feeling and with remarkably clear diction in her German songs, among which Schumann's "Liebeslied." Str "Mit Deinen Blauen Augen" and Hugo

"Mit Deinen Blauen Augen" and Hugo Wolf's "Dank des Paria."

Two delightful little songs yet in manuscript were sung by Mr. Hamlin—Harry Burleigh's "The Glory of the Day Was in Her Face" and "A Prayer."

They were two of the most melodious and yet characteristic compositions heard this season from the pen of a native composer, and the fact that Mr. Burleigh belongs to the negro race does not make us any the less A tall clair de lune flower vase of the race does not make us any the less enthusiastic in claiming him as our own. and "Agnes."
Miss Howard is well known from her appearance as a member of the Century Opera Company. Her voice last night sounded fresher than it had on the opera stage, though it still showed the faults of labored produc-tion in a lack of uniformity of timbre. Yet she displayed a good deal of interpretative power in such songs as Sinding's "Ein Weib" and Sigurd Sie's "Der Schnee," even if her singing was marred by faults of exaggeration. Her audience was most responsive.
